ness, though perhaps ultra-saccharine, is less remarkable than his power. It is not to pronounce at once upon a man who comes as a herald of revolution, and who sits at once accepted theories. with slaves who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found to be of value to all Europeans, and it is believed, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few are conversant. The natives are perfectly acquainted. To the natives of England and interested in the subject it cannot be of invariable use occasionally. It crosses upwards of two thousand large square pages.
